Fun Resumes Aboard Liner, But Hunt For Bombs Goes On

LONDON (AP) — The liner Queen Elizabeth 2 steamed full speed for Europe Friday night with bands playing, passengers dancing and popping champagne corks the only explosions.

"Everyone's drinking and dancing as usual and I don't think there's any danger," a girl crew member reported by radio from the floating pleasure palace.

Cunard officials in London gave the same cheerful verdict.

Yet the search for bombs went on, led by four British experts who parachuted into the Atlantic near the ship Thursday. And speculation bounced around that Cunard had paid $350,000 ransom via the FBI to the mystery man who threatened to blow up the 65,000-ton liner and her 2,350 passengers and crew.

Victor Matthews, Cunard chairman, told a London news conference the cash had been handed to the FBI in bills of $10 and $20.

A Cunard man in New York said nothing had been paid to extortions. Matthews, however, pointedly declined to say if the FBI still had the money. The FBI in Washington kept similarly mum.

Was the whole thing a hoax? "More of a confidence trick," said Matthews. "The whole story will come out eventually."

Cunard promised another news conference Saturday when the vessel reaches Cherbourg.

The drama started Wednesday with a telephone call to Cunard's New York office saying six bombs had been planted aboard in New York along with two men ready to detonate them—one an ex-convict, the other a terminal cancer case, both prepared to die. Cunard and security men on both sides of the Atlantic decided to take the threat seriously, partly because the caller showed some technical knowledge of the ship, partly because the call tallied with a threat delivered to Scotland Yard two months before.

Thursday evening, passengers watched disposal experts drop through the clouds by parachute to be picked up by launch and hustled aboard. They searched the big ship for six hours but found nothing.

Chairman Matthews said search will continue until the liner reaches Cherbourg Saturday on an overnight stop before

Child Driver Slightly Hurt

CORRY—An unlicensed "driver" smashed into the side of an unoccupied building in Mill Village Wednesday afternoon causing minor injuries and $1,700 damage.

State police at the Corry station said Gretchen Reagle, one and a half, was sitting in a car seat in the back of her mother's car when the mother, Mrs. Karen Reagle, 27, of Mill Village, left the engine running and stepped out of the car.

The youngster climbed out of her seat, over the front seat and put the vehicle into gear. The car traveled across the road for 260 feet and collided with a building owned by Mrs. Shelhamer of Mill Village.

Damage to the building was set at $1,500 and to the car $200. Gretchen sustained a laceration above her left eye, police said, but there were no other injuries.

Taken to Warren General Hospital suffering from a broken collarbone and multiple abrasions was Frank R. Salapak of 1 Lawn ave., Warren. Police said $300 damage was done to the bike.

Activists Claim Credit For Pentagon Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI experts sifted rubble of a bomb-shattered Pentagon restroom Friday for clues to determine who caused a post-midnight explosion in apparent protest against U.S. air and sea attacks on North Vietnam.

Antiwar activists told news organizations "we attacked the Pentagon, the center of the American military command."

Pentagon officials reported "no appreciable slowdown" in operations of the huge Defense Department headquarters, although tighter security measures were in effect.

About 18 persons who normally worked near the fourth-floor explosion scene were unable to use their offices, but otherwise it appeared that most of the building's 27,500 military and civilian workers were on a business-as-usual basis.

A rash of new bomb threats hit the Pentagon after news of the blast came out. Officials regarded these as crank calls, although precautionary checks were made.

Bomb experts combed the world's biggest office building with the aid of a specially trained "sniffer" dog named Duchess, but no additional bombs were turned up.

Pentagon authorities said they had no estimate of damage and expected none at least until Monday, after a detailed examination of the damaged area. It is centered in the outer corridor, the equivalent of two city blocks from the office suites of the Secretary of the Air Force Robert C. Seamans Jr., and Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force chief of staff. However, it was apparent that the damage was extensive.

Thousands of gallons of water gushed from shattered pipes and caused what was described as minimal damage to an Air Force data processing center containing some $15 million worth of equipment. After a 7½-hour interruption, the center was back in operation and officials said no data was lost.

The center, also three floors down from the blast, handles logistics information and is not involved in Southeast Asia military operations, officials said. The explosion occurred at 12:59 a.m. EDT, at a time when the Pentagon's population was about at its smallest.

One of the first alerts reported came at 1:05 a.m., when a caller identifying himself as "The Weatherman" notified the New York Post that "we have just bombed the office of the secretary of the Air Force in the Pentagon." Similar telephone calls were made to several other news media.

A reporter from the New York Post found a letter in a phone booth near the newspaper's printing plant, signed, "Weatherman Underground

No. 12."

The letter said:

"We are acting at a time when growing U.S. air and naval shelling are being carried out against the Vietnamese; while U.S. mines and warships are used to block the harbors of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam escalation plans are being made in Washington."

The Pentagon is an open building during weekday working hours from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. After 6, persons are admitted only with passes bearing their pictures.

Nixon Pays Surprise

Visit To Gov. Wallace

SILVER SPRINGS, Md. (AP) — President Nixon paid a surprise 20-minute visit to the bedside of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace Friday and said afterward that Wallace's morale was "quite remarkable."

Later, Wallace issued a campaign statement from his hospital bed thanking Alabamans for "being with us."

The governor's press secretary, Billy Jo Camp, acknowledged that the statement could be interpreted as a resumption of Wallace's presidential campaign.

The message said Alabamans "are responsible for the new direction in this country because most of the politicians are sounding like us."

Camp said Wallace has been able to sit on a portable inclined cot away from his bed and for the first time Friday was fed by mouth—chicken broth soup.

Doctors said the governor, who is convalescing from gun wounds, is maintaining stable pulse and blood pressures.

"The governor had a good night," said a medical advisory put out early Friday by Holy Cross Hospital.

Nixon left reporters after the morning visit:

"I don't know what the physical damage will be, but the most important thing, nothing's happened to his head and nothing has happened to his heart."

Wallace was gunned down late Monday at a rally in Laurel, Md. One bullet lodged in his spinal canal, paralyzing his legs.

"As I looked at him this morning," Nixon said of his private meeting with Wallace, "he was very alert. He looked as if he had a good night's sleep. His reaction time was extremely fast."

"You would think he was just in for a tonsillectomy or something like that rather than why he's been there."

Nixon said he reiterated his offer to let Wallace stay in the presidential suite at Walter Reed Hospital. Nixon said the governor told him that he might at a later date but he was eager to return to Alabama.

In the medical bulletin, doctors said the paralysis of Wallace's legs remained unchanged and that physical therapy was continuing. Therapists are moving Wallace's legs to keep the muscles in tone and the circulation going. Doctors said Wallace's kidney function was normal.

Nixon declined to comment on the physical condition of Wallace, saying he would leave that up to the doctors. But, mentally, he said, the governor was "very alert" and "was not depressed by this terrible event. He's really ace high. After what he's been through, it's really quite remarkable ..."

In an interview with The Associated Press, Mrs. Cornelia Wallace said her husband is the kind of scrapper who may walk again, just because his doctors tell there isn't much chance of it.

Humphrey, McGovern To Debate On Television

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern will meet in nationally televised campaign debates on the two Sundays before the June 6 California primary, aides to the two Democratic contenders announced Friday.

The candidates will meet in "debate format" on one-hour broadcasts of ABC's "Issues and Answers" and CBS's "Face the Nation." One broadcast will be May 28 and the second on June 4, but it hasn't been decided yet in what order the networks will carry the debates.

John Morrison, one of Humphrey's top lieutenants, said after a meeting with McGovern officials in Los Angeles that the senators also would hold a third California debate if it can be arranged.

The aides said if the third debate is held, it would occur between next Thursday and next Sunday.

The announcement came as McGovern whistle-stopped by motorcade through Oregon in an effort to fatten his expected victory margin in Tuesday's primary. Humphrey was taking a rare "rest day" from the busy campaign trail.

Saying he didn't want to take his Oregon lead for granted, the South Dakota senator began the day with a radio talk show in Portland. Then he embarked on a 175-mile motor trip down the populous Willamette Valley. McGovern planned to fly to North Bend on the coast for a labor dinner address Friday night.

Minnesota Sen. Humphrey passed up campaigning in Oregon to concentrate on California's rich June 6 presidential primary with a prize of 271 delegate votes—winner take all. Friday, he spent a relaxed, sealed day at the fashionable Bel Air home of one of his California backers talking to supporters and potential campaign contributors.

Both Humphrey and McGovern are planning to spend well over $1 million in their California campaigns. McGovern made a brief Los Angeles stop Thursday and will begin his all-out California drive after the Oregon balloting.

Humphrey plans to campaign in California virtually nonstop from Saturday through June 6, with one possible trip to New Jersey which also holds its primary June 6.

A possible hitch came when Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, also a Democratic presidential contender, demanded to be included because of the federal rule requiring stations to give equal time to political candidates.

Brown said he waived a requirement that a candidate must sign such a request because of the physical condition of Wallace.

Last In A Series

Jackie Comes Down From Her Pedestal

By CHRISTIAN CAFARAKIS

(There have been many reports of quarrels between Jackie and Ari Onassis. Most of them have been denied. In the last of a series from his new book, the man who says he was a steward on Onassis' yacht gives what he says is an insider's report on the subject.)

There's no doubt that by 1970, Onassis had decided to get a divorce.

The following scene, which I heard about from a reliable source (one of Onassis' few confidants, in fact), took place in the library of Jackie's New York apartment.

Onassis simply told her one evening that he couldn't continue to live this way any longer, that he would honor his marriage contract, but that he thought their marriage was a total failure; it would be better for them to separate. The two of them had no interests or tastes in common to fall back on.

Since their marriage, they both continued to live more or less as they had when single. They hadn't really made a concentrated effort to create a solid bond that might possibly have helped them through this crisis.

Standing very straight in a yellow evening gown, Jackie seemed to accept her husband's decision without complaint. She replied that all further communication would be conducted through their lawyers.

Onassis left the apartment for the Pierre, where he's spent almost every night in New York since the marriage, and the next day, Friday, he took a plane to Paris.

On Saturday, Ari was dining at Maxim's with Maria Callas. There was even a photograph of them published in the newspapers, chatting comfortably after dinner over a bottle of champagne.

Perhaps this photograph is what saved the situation. No one will ever know. It's certain, however, that Jackie flew to Paris the following Monday and arrived at his apartment around four o'clock in the afternoon.

She came from the airport in a taxi, without a single bodyguard to protect her. She looked exhausted and when she took off her sunglasses her eyes were red and swollen from crying.

When she was informed that her husband was out, she calmly sat down to wait, and absently looked through magazines for the rest of the afternoon.

When Onassis came home it was about 8:30 p.m. Jackie got up, very pale, took a few steps toward him, then threw herself into his arms and burst into tears. With this one gesture, she opened the door to a whole new life for them.

All their past resentment seemed to melt away and nothing else mattered. For the first time in years she had come down from her pedestal and acted like a wife who was in love with her husband.

And the truth turns out to be that simple: Jackie really loves him. The moment he decided that everything was over between them, she realized that she was deeply in love with this self-made man who was admittedly a little rough in his ways, but was also the most unusual individual she'd ever encountered in her life.

In the next few months, they dumbfounded all those who had sworn that the marriage was a failure. Today, they're completely content with each other. Tomorrow? I have a strong feeling that tomorrow will find them much the same.

During the three days they spent in Paris before leaving for New York, they made a number of decisions, the most important of which was to take a second honeymoon, to last no less than a full year. And finally, at the age of sixty-five, the great businessman decided that it was time to stop working so hard.

If his wife was prepared to give up some of her whims as a sacrifice to him, he could, for his part, make a concerted effort not to spend all of his waking hours at work.

There were many more astonishing changes in this remarkable woman. Although she had always stayed away from Skorpios as much as possible because of her fear of earthquakes, she now took up gardening. She had plants flown over especially from Florida to help her redesign the flower beds. What's more, she went out every morning to pick bouquets of roses, tulips and orchids to fill the many vases in the three houses and the yacht.

But perhaps the most dramatic and meaningful transformation in the life of this extraordinary couple took place in March, 1971, while they were on a cruise.

An unexpected storm hit the Christina. It frightened Jackie so much that around two in the morning she decided to wake her husband, who still slept below in the cabin on the ship. She begged him to join her upstairs.

On all subsequent nights, using the excuse that there could be another such storm at any moment, Jackie asked her husband to stay with her. This was the end of Clause Nineteen in the marriage contract.

Driver Who Triggered Mass Crash Tried To Avoid It

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Witnesses and police say the driver of a runaway truck that triggered a fiery 32-vehicle chain-reaction collision on one of the city's busiest highways tried in vain to avoid the crash.

"I saw the truck barreling down the road," said 25-year-old Harvey Hockensmith of Edgewood, a witness, after the Thursday crash that left two persons dead and a dozen other injured.

"When he saw he couldn't stop, he blew his horn and started plowing into cars in the left lane," Hockensmith said.

The truck—laden with two steel ingots weighing an estimated 40 tons—apparently lost its brakes while descending a steep grade on the westbound side of the Penn-Lincoln Parkway, a heavily traveled four-lane highway that winds eastward from the downtown area.

State police quoted other witnesses as saying the driver, identified as Robert Health, 24, of New Cumberland, W. Va., tried repeatedly to stop his rig by bumping it against the median guardrail.

Warren County Sheriff's Department officials are investigating three incidents that occurred Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

On Wednesday morning they learned burglars broke into the "Record Nook" in Tidioute, during the night, making off with $421 in merchandise.

All three investigations are continuing.

It was slowed somewhat as Dyan McClain and Gregg Confer read the class farewell and thank you poems.

The class will was read by Tom Bonavita and the prophecy by Debbie Billow, Bill Snyder, Joan Hofer, Steve Witkin and Jim McPherson.

Pam Underhill read the welcome poem following the prologue by Nancy Nordin and Willie LeMeur.

High-Level UMW Official Named In Yablonski Killings

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Silos Huddleston, murder defendant turned government witness, Friday named a high-level United Mine Workers official as one of his co-conspirators in the Yablonski family killings.

Huddleston, 63, a former Tennessee coal miner, made the accusation against Albert E. Pass of Middlesboro, Ky., a member of the UMW International Executive Board. The testimony came at a preliminary hearing for Pass, who subsequently was ordered held for grand jury action on three murder charges by Washington County Judge Thomas D. Glad.

The charges stem from the Dec. 31, 1969, killings of UMW rebel leader Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter in nearby Clarksville.

The white-haired Huddleston, who has pleaded guilty to the murders, sat cross-legged in the witness chair and spoke quickly and clearly of the alleged plot.

Asked by special prosecutor Richard Sprague to identify Huddleston, he leaned forward and pointed his index finger directly at the defendant.

"First, I was contacted by Mr. Prater, but later I met with Mr. Pass," Huddleston said.

Initially, the murder plot was agreed at a man named Ted Q. Wilson, Huddleston testified.

"That men settin' in the middle over there," Huddleston declared with a Tennessee drawl.

Pass, a short, square-shouldered man, bald and bespectacled, stared fixedly at Huddleston during the testimony. Occasionally he paused to take notes on a small pad.

New Owner For Oneida Lumber

The Oneida Lumber and Supply Company, 405 Beech st., is now under the ownership of Lawrence E. Werner, a longtime contractor from the Russell area.

Werner said Friday he will conduct a cash-and-carry lumber and related supply business with free delivery.

A milling shop will continue to serve customers, Werner said. "We will do custom and detail work on request."

The business formerly belonged to the same people who own the Seneca Lumber and Supply, 422 Crescent Park.

Lloyd Cleveland, president of Seneca Lumber and Supply, said they have owned the

The office portion of the business once served as the first home of the Conewango Club when it stood at the corner of Market st. and Second ave. — the modern day Conewango Club site.

Around the turn of the century the building was moved to its present location and turned into the Whetmore-Henderson Lumber Company.

The concern was purchased several years later by the United Lumber Co., of Jamestown, N.Y. and remained under that ownership until World War II.

"We'll deal in all premium quality brand name products," Werner said. "We'll also do carload buying to lower prices for the consumer."

Tigers Tumble On Errors, 2-1

DETROIT (AP) — Errors by Detroit pitcher Les Cain in the first and fifth innings led to two unearned Cleveland runs and gave Gaylord Perry and the Indians a 2-1 victory over the Tigers Friday night.

Perry, 7-2 went the distance for the fifth time this season. He gave up a run in the first inning on a double by Aurelio Rodriguez and a single by Norm Cash, then shut out Detroit on three singles the rest of the way.

Tom McCraw led off the Cleveland first with a dribbler to Cain, 0-3, who threw the ball over first baseman Cash's head, allowing McCraw to reach third. Eddie Leon followed with a sacrifice fly.

It was McCraw again who was safe in the fifth on a Cain error when the Tiger pitcher couldn't handle a throw from Cash. McCraw apparently pulled a leg muscle on the play, but pinch runner Chris Chambliss reached third on a single by Leon and scored on a forceout by Alex Johnson.

Torre's 3-Run HR Lifts Cards, 4-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jo Torre snapped out of a brief slump with a towering three-run homer off Ferguson Jenkins, leading the St. Louis Cardinals out of an eight-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

Torre, who had a 15-game hitting streak before undergoing a two-game drought, connected in the fifth inning after the Cubs took a 2-1 lead in the top of the frame on Ken Rudolph's solo shot off Scipio Spinks.

Ted Sizemore ignited the Cards' rally with a ground-rule

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Grote drove in four runs with a pair of homers and Rusty Staub knocked in three with a homer and a single as the high-flying New York Mets dumped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3

Friday night.

The victory was the eighth in a row, 11th in 12 games and 21st in their last 26, enabled them to widen their National League East Division lead to six games as the Phils, losing their third straight, fell into third, 6½ games of the pace and one-half game back of Pittsburgh. After a 1½-hour rain delay, the Mets scored a run in the first inning on a walk to Tommie Agee and singles by Staub and John Milner but the Phils went ahead in the second on Dick Selma's two-run double.

The defeat was the fifth in succession for Montreal which has fallen to 13-16 on the season after winning its first seven games.

New York Blanks Red Sox Behind Stottlemyre, 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — New York ace Mel Stottlemyre scattered eight hits in pitching his second consecutive shutout and third of the season as the Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-0 Friday night.

The Yankees nicked winless Marty Pattin, 0-5, for a run in the second inning on Rich McKinney's single, a wild pitch, a bunt and a single by Gene Michael and chased him with three runs in the fourth.

Michael led off with a single, Stottlemyre was hit by a pitch and they advanced on a wild pitch. Horace Clarke blooped a double to short left, scoring Michael, and when third baseman Rico Petrocelli threw the relay past second Stottlemyre also scored. Bobby Murcer singled home the final run of the inning.

Stottlemyre, 4-3, had to pitch out of trouble three times in gaining his 32nd career shutout, tops among active American League pitchers. The most serious threat came in the fifth when Doug Griffin doubled with one out and Carlton Fisk singled. Stottlemyre struck out rookie pinch hitter Bob Gallagher and Tommy Harper grounded out.

Host Pro Leading Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bert Weaver, seeking to become the first man in 11 years to win on his home course, fired a three-under-par 69 and swept into the second-round lead Friday in the $175,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open Golf Classic.

The 40-year-old Weaver, who took the head pro job at the host Colonial Country Club Oct. 1, had a 36-hole total of 140, four under par on the 7,195-yard layout.

He was one stroke in front of big J.C. Snead, who held a share of the lead until he bogeyed his final hole in the warm, sunny weather. Snead, the star of the 1971 U.S. Ryder Cup team, finished with a 70-141.

A quartet headed by defending champion Lee Trevino and 42-year-old Arnold Palmer was next at 142. Palmer had a second consecutive 71 and Trevino matched par 72.

Golf Tips

(Ed.'s Note: This feature is designed to allow area golf pros the opportunity to discuss aspects of the game, and present tips to help golfers improve their game.)

THE LONG IRONS

By John Kleimer, Coneango Valley Country Club
The most rewarding shot in golf is a well played long iron. The feeling of hitting a low-flying two-iron 200 yards and having it settle near the flagstick is the finest in sports. Yet most golfers never experience this joy.

Most players, in fact, after a few fatal tries never even use the one-, two- or three-irons. Most of my students have many misconceptions about the way to swing the club.

I first discuss theory and then guide the golfer through the correct swing. Only now do I show the player what his mistake is. With practice, the player can correct his error and also know how to keep from reverting back to it.

The student soon learns that the long iron is not hard to hit, and is a useful tool to the complete player.

The long iron should be from the same stance as all the other clubs are. The club should be swept away from the ball in a wide arc with the left hand pushing the club back and the right hand acting as a support.

The golfer should continue his backswing until his left shoulder has moved under his chin. At this point, the backswing is complete.

The golfer now has only to pull the club, with the left hand again in control, back through the ball in a wide arc out at the target. The head must remain steady and down until the right shoulder passes under the chin.

The finish should be high with the golfer experiencing the feeling of having thrown his club at the target. No attempt should be made to cock or snap the wrist. The player should swing the long iron at the same speed applied when hitting a seven- or nine-iron.

Let the club do the work and hitting long irons will soon be a pleasure.

Helpful knowledge: According to the Census Bureau, reports business columnist Reynolds Knight, there are 149,742,000 feminine legs over the age of 14 in the United States. This is based on the normal ratio of two legs per ms.

HOUNSLOW, England (AP) — Mayor Michael Flattery, deciding that flattery was about out of date and getting him nowhere, chucked the medieval robes of his office and instructed members of the town council to quit calling him "Your Worship."

WAJIR, Kenya (AP) — A government official in this arid district of Kenya, where lions have devoured at least 30 persons this year, said the best way to avoid such a fate was to quit wandering around outside at night.

Question: Was the omnipresent police three-wheeled vehicle pictured here yesterday next to a time-expired meter illegally parked?

Answer: No. Police, fire and other emergency vehicles are not, of course, subject to local parking regulations, since they are presumed to be on duty at all times.

But the shot was a cute one, and its irony was apparent to the often-tickered public. We trust no police feathers were ruffled, as the intent was humorous.

Few Students To Get Summer Borough Jobs

Only seven or eight of the 40 students applying for summer jobs with the Borough of Warren will find employment there this year, according to Frank Strange, borough manager.

"It's extremely difficult to select from this list of applicants since all of them are equally qualified in many respects and worthy of such part time summer work," Strange said.

Consequently, borough officials decided to put all the names of the applicants "in the hat, so to speak" and draw the names of the lucky seven or eight.

"We held the drawing Thursday morning," Strange said, "and have picked the names of those applicants that will work this summer in the Department of Operating Services."

Those selected will be contacted and scheduled to work beginning June 6.

Strange urged those who have submitted applications to not call the borough offices. Those that were selected will be contacted prior to June 1.

Columbus Fair Plans Progressing

The Columbus Community Fair committee is completing plans for its second annual event to be held at No-Bar Riding Club grounds.

Hours for the fair will be from 6 p.m. until 11 p.m. June 7 and 8, with the queen crowning of Little Miss Columbus set for 8 p.m. June 7, and the water battle at 7 p.m., June 8. On June 9 and 10, the fair will open at 11 a.m. with a pony pull slated for 7 p.m., June 9, and on Saturday, June 10, the Grand Parade will start at 1 p.m. and a grand finale fireworks display at 11 p.m. will conclude events.

An extra attraction for Columbus this year will be a field exhibition by the Erie Thunderbird Senior Drum and Bugle Corps to be held at the fair grounds immediately after the parade.

Booster gifts will be given at 10 p.m. each evening and ticket buyers must be present to win. A 19-inch portable color TV will be given away at 10 p.m. Saturday and buyers need not be present to win.

Advance ride tickets books are available from firemen, Topettes and various outlets around Columbus, but will not be for sale the week of the fair.

Eight rides or more will be brought in by Fairland Amusements from Buffalo.

Puppets in the hands of fifth and sixth graders may be the best medium for drug education at the elementary level. The reaction has been favorable to the premier showing of the story of Hero in drug land produced by the Market Street Elementary School. The pilot project was funded by the Drug Education Committee of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce. Shown here are Christopher Kornreich as a clown, Andy Frost as King Citrus and Voula Kiomourtzis as Grumbletrude the Witch. (Photos by Clever) kid-crafted puppets convert drug message to practical matter

By BOB CLEVER

An allegorical journey through the land of drugs with Hero and 39 other puppets may prove to be the most effective medium of drug education for the elementary level.

The fifth and sixth graders at Market Street Elementary School, under the direction of Mrs. Myra Reichart, have produced a six-act puppet show from a script and with funds provided by the Drug Education Committee of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce.

Market Street students from kindergarten through sixth grade and their parents met Hero and the gang in a premier showing in April.

The viewers went with Hero to the doctor and then to the pharmacy to pick up a prescription. They heard the doctor warn Hero to take only the pills prescribed for him — not those prescribed for his mother, his father or anybody else.

They met the Impulsive Pill Taker, Louie the Lozenge, the Uppers and Downers, the Addict and others. They saw the good and bad side of pills.

They saw the fantastic parade described by Hero to the Addict, blind to reality. Despite his protestations that his world was beautiful, the Addict couldn't see the Spotted Gazoolus, the Three-Masted Sea Serpent and the Great Hairy Snoozle.

They entered the world of fantasy in the Court of King Citrus and cheered when the people refused to take the witch's magic potion to solve their problems.

Hero's story was two and a half months in the making. One month after its premier showing, it is still the topic of discussion at all age levels. Students continue to work on drug related projects.

More Than One Lesson

The message of drugs is indelibly imprinted on the minds of those who produced the show. But theirs was even a bigger lesson — of working together and learning how to do things.

First they had to make 40 puppets. This meant learning the hows and wheres of paper mache. Each student designed his puppet to suit his idea of characterization.

Shy students found themselves released from their shells as they assumed the role of the puppet.

Leaders were identified who might otherwise have remained anonymous.

Over 80 of the school's 100 fifth and sixth graders volunteered.

It was hoped that the puppets would be more than just entertainment, particularly for the kindergarten students and first graders.

The show was entertaining. In fact, the small youngsters still don't believe the puppets aren't real. But the message got through to them. They indicated they understood what each scene was trying to tell them. There was a good residual feeling as they discussed the show in their classrooms.

Puppets were chosen as a drug education medium because other mediums had failed. Scare tactics didn't work, because children just don't scare in that respect. Facts can be learned but the attention span is too short; the subject factually presented is just too dry.

The youngsters learned from the puppets, however, that drugs aren't all evil; that as medicine they have a good place in society; that misuse is the real problem.

The lesson was effective because the language was that of their peers — a language they could understand.

Student directors were given a free hand to determine the course of each scene, and the actors had freedom to interpret their roles. Much of the success in this respect is credited to intentional lack of adult intervention.

There were problems, more technological than philosophical.

With no soundproof recording studio, ingenious methods were found to cut down sound track interference. When the electric piano produced weird noises on the tape, the entire recording session was moved to another classroom.

Each three to four minute scene required 45 minutes of taping time.

The materials for the puppets came from the supply rooms of cooperating teachers. James Hill, the county art coordinator, directed these activities. The project had the whole-hearted support of the faculty and Larry Mong, the principal.

The making of the puppets was somewhat of a different challenge. The students ate and slept wheat paste and paper strips for several weeks; and clean-up at times was a chore.

Starting in February, the students stayed every night after school to read for parts, make puppets and prepare the tape. They would have worked 24 hours a day had they been permitted.

Nearly 20 students read for each part. Puppets were worn during rehearsal so each character would automatically transmit his actions and emotions to the puppet during the actual performance.

The only school time used was during the waning days of rehearsal and preparations for the premier performance.

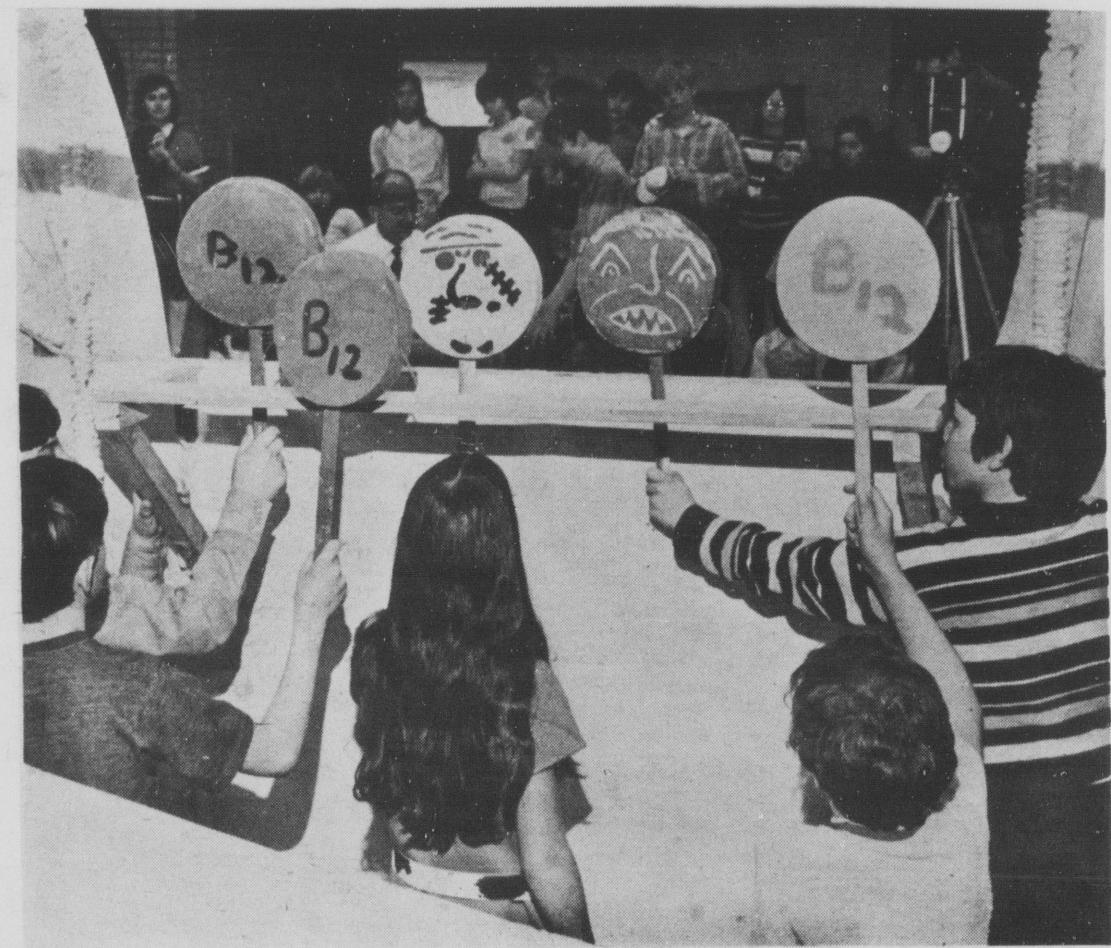

It is anticipated that students in elementary schools throughout the county will be given an opportunity to "do their thing" with Hero's story.

Sheffield High School's WSHS-TV staff under the direction of Don Lang shot a video tape of the show. Hopefully, this tape will be shown at a workshop for fifth and sixth grade teachers — not to tell them how to do it, but to show them how Market Street did it.

Drugs are a problem in our schools — including our elementary grades. The experts now agree that drug education must be aimed at that level.

The Market Street Players will continue to play a vital role in getting the message across to their peers and will be instrumental in getting this message to all of the elementary students in the county. Hero, thanks to Market Street Elementary School, could become a star statewide and nationwide.

Good And Bad Side

The bad side of drugs is not always obvious to those who face them. The vitamins have only one side to show — the good. Here, the Uppers and Downers display their good side to the audience, but those behind the scenes can see the bad side.

Waiting Their Calls

Fifth and sixth graders at Market Street Elementary School wait their call on stage. Each participant designed and created his puppet and was given free reign in characterization and interpretation. Eighty of the school's 100 fifth and sixth graders eagerly participated in the drug education effort.

Curtain Call

Some of the members of the Court of King Citrus take their bows as the ladies in waiting, the witch and others stand in the background. These characters appeared in the final scene of the Market Street production. The fantasy ended with the king's subjects deciding not to take the witch's potion to try to solve their problems.

Hero Says No

Hero faces the misuse of drugs for the first time as he attempts to get a prescription filled. Louis the Lozenge tells Hero it is all right to take any drug as long as you get a kick out of it. Hero establishes the theme of the show by making his own decision — he said, "No Louie, I think you had better go."

Stars In Parade

Mrs. Myra Reichart talks to the Spotted Gazoolus, one of the stars in the parade Hero describes to the Addict. The Addict proclaimed to Hero that his world of drugs was beautiful; yet he couldn't see the Bandle Hoop, Three Masted Sea Serpent, the Great Hairy Snozzle and others parading before his very eyes.

Will Campers Ruin Camping?

In the early days of tent camping on the National Forests, public campgrounds were few in number, primitive by today's standards, but were rarely subject to any form of overcrowding. No camping fees were charged, and there were neither posted rules and regulations, nor campground attendants. Every camper was on his own, and vandalism and other problems so common in many National Forest campgrounds of today were practically unknown.

In these uncrowded campgrounds the tent camper became a part of the local scene; he did not dominate it. His camping gear was minimal. The great age of gadgetry had not yet dawned. He reveled in the simple life, and a return to nature. He cooked his meals over a bed of wood coals, and enjoyed sitting with family and friends around the evening campfire.

In those days, lasting friendships were developed among campers using the same campground. They shared the outdoor experience they had come to seek, and like good neighbors they helped one another. I can't imagine any of them standing idly by and letting a group of young toughs invade the campground to beat up one of the campers as happened last summer at Kiasutha Campground on the Allegheny National Forest.

Today, the proliferation of "camping" units on wheels has taken the "camp" out of camping, and has brought the floating city into the woods. With a home on wheels, the "camper" can always close the door on the outdoors and retire to the comfort and convenience of familiar surroundings. He can also shut himself off from reality and the wonderful world of nature he traveled so far to enjoy.

Compare the space taken up in a modern campground by a 25-foot motor home with that occupied by an 8 x 10' wall tent. For the forest vacationist today the emphasis is on luxury, convenience and styling in the type of quarters he chooses to "camp" in. Air conditioning, wall to wall carpeting, stainless steel sinks, vinyl panels, bathroom with shower and toilet, and other modern conveniences are typical in the higher priced motor homes. And many camping trailers also border on the luxurious. Then there is the pickup camper—a metal self-contained unit that fits onto the bed of a heavy duty pickup truck and provides sleeping and cooking facilities on wheels. The closest approach to old-time tent camping is achieved by the so-called "tent camper", which is a trailer unit that unfolds into a tent on wheels. But even these are becoming more and more luxury styled. I don't know of any of these tents on wheels that have wall-to-wall carpeting, but perhaps some will in the future.

Modern tents come now in a wide variety of sizes, shapes, and colors. Many of them are equipped with metal telescoping poles, double-coated nylon floors, nylon screened windows, and zippered storm flaps. But the recreationist who sets up a tent in a highly developed campground becomes the "peon" among modern "campers." And his numbers are diminishing. Yet it is he who is the real camper, and the one who makes the least impact upon the natural resources that make a forest campground attractive.

A National Forest campground dominated by "camping" units on wheels—with all their appurtenances—is no longer a true campground. It becomes a suburban village on wheels, and one that seems out of place in a forest environment.

"Elijah," Felix Mendelssohn's oratorio as performed by the Penn State Chapel and Concert Choirs with the University Symphony Orchestra, will be shown at 4:00 p.m. This special two-hour program was recorded during a live performance on April 22. Mendelssohn based his oratorio on the Biblical story of the desert prophet Elijah who lived in Israel during the reign of King Ahab. Through the influence of Ahab's wife Jezebel, Israel's purer form of worship was giving way to the worship of Baal. It was Elijah's destiny to call the people back to their original faith.

"Masterpiece Theatre" at 9:00 p.m. will present the first of a six-part enactment of Dostoyevsky's novel, "The Possessed," which is a novel about revolution, conspiracy, murder and madness. Tonight, in "The Sins," the arrogant aristocrat Nikolay creates a scandal by having an affair with his mother's ward Dasha. In an attempt to stop the rumors, Mme. Stavrogin decides to marry off her ward to old Stepan, the aging professor she supports.

"Two by Martha Graham" at 10:00 p.m. is a special in which the first lady of modern dance performs "Acrobats of God," a celebration of the trials, tribulations and delights of a dancer's world. She will also perform, "Seraphic Dialogue," a drama about Joan of Arc.

How To Keep Well

Learn Through Eyes

By Dr. T.R. Van Dellen

It has been said that 85 per cent of what we learn comes in through the eyes. Man's ability to see clearly and to build up experiences is the reason for his superiority over animals. Visual acuity allows us to exercise greater powers of recognition, logic, habit, evaluation, and judgment. But this is only a part of the story. We develop manual skills because our visual apparatus is capable of converging on objects; our binocular vision with depth perception allows us to judge distances.

The eyes frequently are compared with a camera, but film in the camera cannot be compared with the retina. The retina of the eye does not see the image nor does it relay a picture to the brain for interpretation. Vision is a more complex process. Light rays strike the photoreceptors in the retina and are converted by chemical reaction into electrical impulses that are transmitted to the brain via the optic nerve. These impulses travel to the visual cortex of the brain at a speed of 330 feet per second. They are decoded immediately as in a data processing machine. It is here that comprehension takes place.

The visual information also may stimulate other responses that are useful for other purposes, such as survival or instinctive reactions. A man's reaction to a pretty girl is entirely different than it would be if he was set upon by a tiger or elephant. In this regard, sight is more critical to man than to animals which tend to rely on their sense of smell.

Vision also is impaired if anything happens to these centers in the brain. In such instances, the victim blames his eyes when, in reality, it is not a matter of seeing, but of comprehending what is seen.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

K.R. writes: Can athlete's foot spread to the inside of the body through the bloodstream?

REPLY

No, but other infections in the cracks and crevices of the foot can reach the bloodstream. Occasionally the body becomes sensitized to the fungi on the feet and produces an "id" or allergic reaction on the hands. Conversely, there are many different types of fungi and some gain entrance to the body via the lungs. These are systemic in contrast to superficial fungi.

A new four-part series entitled "Young Musical Artists" will begin at 6:30 p.m. In the first part, The Tokyo String Quartet performs "Quartet no. 1, op. 10" by Debussy. Formed in 1969, the quartet won first prize in three prestigious music competitions in 1970.

This week's special guest on "Great Decisions '72" is former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, who will discuss the gap between rich and poor nations and how the gap can be narrowed.

The "PBS Special of the Week" at 8:00 p.m. will present "Black Coal, Red Power." This program examines the strip mining of coal on Indian reservations lands in Arizona, and its effects on the Navajo and Hopi Indians. The strip mining, occurring specifically in the Black Mesa area, and the construction of nearby power plants may severely affect the Indians' livelihood by upsetting the ecological balance—by polluting the Hopi's corn fields and destroying the grazing lands for Navajo sheep.

Members of Centre County's Bald Eagle Power Squadron demonstrate the requirements for safety afloat on "Rogandus" at 10:30 p.m.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1972

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) — Hold off in those areas which need more investigation, but step up action once you have the necessary data. You will face competition, but you CAN best it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) — A top day for attainment, but complete pending projects before taking on new ventures. You can expect welcome cooperation.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Wield authority carefully — even delicately at times. Some situations could get out of hand otherwise. Especially favored now: Writings, communications generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — An inspiring day in part, but some "tricky" spots for those who are not on their toes. A day in which to emphasize your stamina, good judgment and general know-how.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) — Stellar influences now stimulate your ambition, lofty aims and continued purposeful endeavors. Just one admonition: Do avoid being overly aggressive with associates.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — An excellent day for furthering business and financial interests, strengthening personal relationships. You should do well now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Some extraordinary offerings for the taking, but avoid unruly emotions or notions. This day calls for your innately good judgment and foresight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — If you have any complaints, better "keep mum" until sure of the proper time and place to air them. But do set the record straight — calmly and dispassionately.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — System, accuracy, getting a bright start can put this potentially fine day "over the top." Polish up a dormant talent for unique, unexpected use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Fine influences stimulate your special talents. You should have a field day now, but remember that your beginnings will be a vital factor. Start RIGHT!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Neither expect nor demand too much and you will be surprised at your allover returns. Romance and travel especially favored.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Patience and a sense of humor needed now. Do not let minor annoyances get the better of you or you may blow them out of proportion.

TUESDAY

When your house plants threaten to take over the living room, they should be divided to keep them alive, healthy and easy to manage. This will be discussed on "Making Things Grow" at 6:30 p.m.

The final program in the series, "Educating a Nation: The Changing American Commitment", features a continuation of last week's discussion, followed by remarks by former President Lyndon B. Johnson. The first of a ten-part series entitled "Self Defense for Women" will be seen at 10:30 p.m. This is designed to teach women of all ages, shapes, and sizes how to defend themselves against would-be attackers. The teacher is karate expert Jerry Offstein. Tonight Jerry demonstrates basic stances and punches in taekwon-do karate.

FRIDAY
"The Last Laugh" will be presented this week on "Film Odyssey" at 8:30 p.m. Emil Jannings gives a magnificent performance in this 1924 silent film directed by Germany's F.W. Murnau. The film includes only one title-card, but Jannings and Murnau are able to tell the fairly complicated story about an aging hotel doorman who is demoted to washroom attendant because he can no longer carry suitcases.

The first in a series of film portraits of a variety of artists entitled "Artists in America" will be seen at 10:30 p.m. Tonight's subject is Peter Alexander, a young Los Angeles sculptor who creates art out of plastics.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST -- 614 Fourth ave. Rev. Wilbur

The majority of us enjoy the revival of plant life as it occurs each spring. Even the gloom of the spring showers is welcome, for with each freshet all nature is quickened to a higher level of resurrection. We thank God for this great object lesson in nature, for there is a bodily resurrection and there can be a spiritual resurrection.

The problems we face are complex, seldom solved, and very depressing. We look to government in vain, since legislators can but impose outward restrictions, while our problems issue from the hearts of men. Educators fare no better with the significant problems, for they deal with the mind and personality, while Jesus, the greatest teacher, taught that the difficulty was in the heart. Though government and education are necessities, many of us realize that spiritual awakening will never be reached through the agency of man. God alone can solve our problems of sin (war, crime, dope, etc.), for God alone can provide a spiritual heart transplant.

Mankind has known God's solution for centuries, but finding the remedy costly, they have generally ignored it. Oh, some have declared days of prayer, but these have proved insufficient. God hears prayers that are preceded by confession and repentance, that are accompanied by humility and faith and end in obedience. If we pray in this spirit, God has promised to change the heart by regeneration. Certainly, this is the way to a spiritual springtime. Jesus said, "Ye must be born again".

McGovern's Economics

By William F. Buckley, Jr.

It is a commonplace that George Wallace, whose tragic incapacitation the whole world deplores, and George McGovern have been appealing to substantially the same people, and we are supposed to scratch our head and wonder why. I think I know. Wallace's extra-segregationist appeal has to do with the reduction of taxes, and so does McGovern's. Both the reduction of taxes, which people (quite rightly) desire, and the imposition of some form of punishment on other people (the alleged profiteers, the greedy, acquisitive rich). But George McGovern, unlike George Wallace, has strung out his thoughts in intelligible prose, and this now has been collected, and analyzed, in an extraordinary set of articles called: "The Economics of George McGovern," in National Review.

The findings are striking. It is just possible that in the history of the United States, no one with the substantial backing that George McGovern has achieved in the academy, has engaged in such fiscal charlatanism. Wallace's technique has been to arouse the masses with blurred images of comfortable white pointy-heads decreeing integrated schools from their private havens in Arlington, Virginia. McGovern is a soft-throated but utterly orthodox champion of the hoary notion that you can give everybody everything and just charge it to the rich.

The editors painstakingly put together the McGovern supplementary budget, carefully calculating the probable cost from available figures. The major item is of course the family allowance program, which calls for giving every man woman and child one thousand dollars, for a net cost of $43 billion. Federal health insurance would cost $33 billion. Thirty million new homes, $25 billion. The day care centers, $20 billion. One-third the cost of education, $12 billion. Job training, rural economic development, urban renewal, pollution control, public transit, school and hospital construction, food stamp, crime and drug control and miscellaneous scholarships, added to the above figures total $159 billion.

How would President McGovern pay for this? Never mind for a moment the strategic implications—in defense, in the value of the dollar, in international trade—just accept his figures. He would reduce defense spending by $30 billion, get $17 billion more from increased corporate taxes, six billion from a tax on the rich, $5 billion from an inheritance tax, one billion from a reduction in welfare costs which would be made possible by the family allowance program. That comes to a reduction of $59 billion.

A net deficit of $100 billion.

To which one of course needs to add the projected 1973 deficit as things are now going. Thus the deficit would come to $126 billion. If that were to happen, there would hardly be any point in paying each person one thousand dollars. One might as well pay him ten thousand dollars. Because the dollar wouldn't be worth anything.

The study shows that the total income of everyone in America who makes over $50,000 per year is 38 billion dollars. Of that, $17 billion is already paid over in tax. Mr. Henry Hazlitt has calculated that if one were to reduce the top tax rate from the existing high down to 50 per cent, the government would lose less revenue than it spends in a working day.

On and on it goes. Get the money by closing the loopholes? The biggest loophole is the deductibility of state and local taxes ($5.6 billion). Does George McGovern really want to do that? Or would he end deductions for charitable contributions? ($38.8 billion) Or shall we hand over the entire bill for Senator McGovern's new America to the oil and gas industry? Their total deductions for depletion, exploration and development costs last year were $1.3 billion.

The study is available, free of charge — write for "McGovern Pamphlet," Box 182 Murray Hill Station, New York, 10016—and shows the arrant lengths to which fiscal populism takes us, and leaves us asking the question: of the two men, can it be confidently asserted that McGovern is the lesser demagogue?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nixon Uniting China, Russia

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—There is evidence in the secret U.S. cable traffic that President Nixon's military moves in Vietnam may be driving the two great Communist antagonists, Russia and China, back together.

We have been able to trace the dismaying developments through secret documents, which the White House has carefully withheld from both Congress and the public.

These documents show that the Kremlin reacted to the Chinese-American rapprochement by making its own secret overtures to Peking last August. The Soviets worked through Lin Piao, the acerbic defense minister, who had been designated by Mao Tse-tung to become his successor.

Encouraged by his Soviet contacts, Lin opposed inviting President Nixon to Peking and advocated restoring the Chinese-Russian partnership. This put Lin in direct conflict with Premier Chou En-lai, who had issued the invitation to Nixon.

Lin lost the showdown and mysteriously disappeared. The crafty Chou spread the word to the party faithful that Lin had died in a plane crash after attempting to assassinate Mao.

WANNA WRESTLE?— "The (State) Commission (on the status of women) pointed out that in a national emergency, Congress has the duty to seek out and secure the physically strongest for combat and military service," explains Ms. Arline Lutman (Commission Executive Director). "Women have never claimed to be equal to men in sheer physical strength, and it is not likely that the Equal Rights Amendment will change that. The (equal rights) amendment requires equal treatment under the law; it does not require women to perform the same jobs as men."

TIMING—The inside word here is that the State's Compensation Commission will propose a $17,000 salary for Pennsylvania's lawmakers, while reducing expense account dips from $8400 to $5000 a year. The Commission's recommendations will take effect, automatically, 60 days after being officially presented to the House and Senate. No vote is required unless changes are sought in the proposal. That is unlikely because the whole issue would be dragged into the open debate stage. Moreover, it would kill the whole idea of the Commission, which was established in order to take legislators off the hook in deciding on their own pay.

To smooth over a salary increase of $9,800 in one crack, legislative leaders are planning to pass a bill reducing the sizes of the House (from 203 to 160) and Senate (from 50 to 40). This will come to a final vote on the above-mentioned 60th day.

Chou's version, which was whispered around China and reached CIA ears, had it that Lin attempted to waylay Mao on the way home from South China by train last August.

PLOT AGAINST MAO?

Knowing Mao's itinerary would take him through Shanghai and Wuhsi, Lin allegedly arranged an assassination party in Shanghai and afterward planned to blow up a bridge in Wuhsi to wreck Mao's train. Both plots failed, according to the story, and Lin attempted to flee to Russia by jet on September 13. The plane supposedly crashed in the Wenteukhan area of Mongolia.

The whispers of the plot to kill Mao, who has deity status in China, apparently was intended to cow Lin Piao's supporters. So monstrous was the thought of assassinating the great Mao, in Chinese minds, that the Lin faction was supposed to be intimidated into silence.

But the opposition to Chou continued to simmer under the surface and the Russians quietly pressed for better relations. The plenum of the Soviet central committee, in an unpublished action last November, sought to restrain the ideological struggle against the Chinese.

Still, other events inflamed Chinese-Russian relations until the State Department reported in a confidential summary last December: "Sino-Soviet international polemics as distinct from domestic propaganda have risen to the highest level since 1969... Peking, however, has so far avoided whipping up a war scare within China, and it appears to be attempting to restrict increased tension with Moscow to verbal fireworks on international questions."

Significantly, Chou is in charge of China's international affairs and, therefore, was responsible for the rising rhetoric. President Nixon's air attacks upon North Vietnam, however, have made it awkward for Chou.

China and Russia have been competing for Hanoi's favor, as the two titans of Communism maneuver for influence in Southeast Asia.

RIVALRY IN HANOI

The Central Intelligence Agency, in a secret report, has declared: "Following Dr. Henry Kissinger's July visit to Peking, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai made a secret visit to Hanoi to reassure the Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) of continued Chinese support.

"The Chinese emphasized their support by increasing their assistance to the DRV for the 1971-72 period. This in turn resulted in an increase in Soviet assistance to the DRV for the same period....

"The DRV expressed its apprehension to Chou regarding a U.S.-Chinese detente and stated that the DRV is still suspicious about President Nixon's visit to Peking."

In view of the Chinese-Russian rivalry in Hanoi, Nixon undermined Chou and justified Lin's position by ordering air strikes against North Vietnam. This has strengthened Lin's survivors inside the Chinese policy councils.

As a result, Lin's idea of repairing Chinese-Russian relations is gaining support. At the United Nations, for example, the relations between Chinese and Russian delegates are warming.

A Soviet delegation, on tour of China, has also been received with unaccustomed cordiality. In return, there was no Soviet denunciation of the Chinese at the Lenin Day celebration on April 21.

There are now hints of Chinese-Russian cooperation to route war supplies overland to North Vietnam. If this develops, the mining of the North Vietnamese harbors will cost the United States far more in world strategy than is likely to be gained on the Vietnamese fighting fronts.
